

A Light at the End of a Dark Shade of Nothing

Lost and confused,
Dazed and unsure,
Unfamiliar faces of those I once knew before.

Time is running out,
Fear is on edge,
I question my only God looking for an end.

Hatred in their eyes,
Guilt they don't possess,
Slowly I give in and realize I am failing their final test.

The world around me has grown weak,
I've watched my loved ones leave,
Then a strength so fierce built up inside allows me to believe.

A light at the end of a dark shade of nothing,
A moment too good to be true,
I finally see that there is hope and it all depends on me.

I must be strong,
I must have faith,
I have a chance to live out our dreams.